LIGHTNING DOES GREAT DAMAGE

Three Barns Destroyed, Silk Mill Struck and Catholic Rectory Damaged in Two Electrical Storms which Visited the County.

Two heavy storms, one in the east and the other in the west, hovered over Adams County for three hours Friday evening and, during their stay lightning destroyed three barns and struck other buildings in various parts of the county in addition to doing a great amount of minor damage.
During the height of the storm the barn on the farm of George Smick, at Ground Oak church, between Idaville and York Springs, was struck and fired. Practically all the contents were destroyed, including the season's crops already harvested, two cows and two calves. Only a few things were gotten out to a safe place, the barn burning very rapidly. Mr. Smick carried some insurance.

Between eleven and twelve o'clock the barn on the tenant farm of John Dillon in Buchanan Valley was totally destroyed by fire. The farm is tenanted by John O'Brien and only on Friday
he had hauled a quantity of wheat into the building. Some of the other crops had also been stored there but Mr. Dillon did not keep any stock at the place and it escaped. The tenant farm is located about a mile from St. Ignace church on the road leading to Arendtsville.

Fire completely destroyed the barn
of Vernon Riley in Liberty township when the storm centered over the vicinity of Zora. Mr. Longanecker's farm is located at that village, on the road from Fairfield to Emmitsburg.
All the crops and one cow were burned in the blaze.

A report of a barn burning near Bonneauville arose from a blaze caused on the farm of A. J. Spangler near that place when lightning struck a rye shock in the field. The grain burned intermittently for an hour and a half, the rain keeping down the fire between times. The sudden bursts of flames caused a light that could be seen for some distance.

At the Catholic rectory in Fairfield lightning struck at the roof, tore off a portion of the chimney, broke off some of the slate roof and then went into the building where the only damage done was a scorched window shade. The occupants of the house were so terrified that they ran out into the heavy rain and sought refuge in the hotel where they remained for the balance of the night.

The silk mill at Littlestown was struck by lightning in the electrical storm over the eastern portion of the county. The stroke entered under one of the ventilators in the roof, and was followed by a terrific crash of thunder. No damage was done to the factory.

Howard Gardner, of Latimore township, lost a mule which was struck and instantly killed in one of his fields.

Telephone lines were crippled in many instances and a number of private telephones were put out of commission by the electricity. Comparatively few poles were struck over the county and it was possible to repair the trouble in a short time. There was much delay for those who wished to put through long distant calls, the storm being general in this part of the state.

HAGERSTOWN FIRE

Lightning Causes Fire which Completely Wrecks Big Factory.

Hagerstown suffered a severe fire early this morning when the four-story brick building of the Antietam Knitting Company was struck by lightning and burned to the ground during the severe storm. The loss is about $75,000 partially covered by insurance. The mill employed about 125 people, mostly girls who will be thrown out of employment as the result of the conflagration. Coming on top of the destruction of the Windsor Knitting Mills in a like manner several weeks ago, a large number of hands are thrown out of work and two of the city's largest industries must suspend operations.

FIXED DATES FOR THE CONVENTION

Adams County Sunday School Workers will be Assisted in Convention
by Three State Officials. Expect Excellent Program.

The county Sunday School conventions dates have been definitely settled and plans are being made to make the meeting one of the best ever held in the county.

It will take place at St. John's Lutheran Church, near Littlestown on Thursday and Friday, August 27th and 28th. There will be five sessions.
If possible plans will be made to hold the two evening sessions in one of the large churches in Littlestown, so as to accommodate more people.

W. G. Landes, the efficient general secretary of the Pennsylvania Sabbath School Association, will be present during the greater part of the convention and will address one of the sessions. Mr. Landes is a very busy man and the county officers had a lot of trouble to secure him for this convention but, as it has been several years since he visited the county, he cancelled other engagements to come.

W. D. Reel, and Miss Robinson,
State Department Superintendents, both well known in the county, will be present. Besides these state officers the best local talent in the way of Sunday School methods will present the different phases of the work.

E. P. Miller, of Gettysburg, president of the county association, will preside at the sessions and the devotional exercises will all be under the direction of Rev. F. E. Taylor, pastor of the Presbyterian church, of Gettysburg. Rev. Joseph B. Baker, of St. James Lutheran church, has consented to give an illustrated talk and a number of other people from the town and county will speak. They will be announced as soon as their formal acceptances have been received.

CATHOLICS LOST

Another Surprise in Sunday School Base Ball League.

That you can never tell just what will happen in the local Sunday School base ball series was proved again Friday evening when the Catholics went down to defeat before the Presbyterians 3 to 2 and lessened considerably their chances of winning this year's pennant. Earlier in the week St. James fell before the College-Methodist nine. Friday evening's game was featured by a number of fast plays, and concluded with an exciting thirty seconds when Harry Breighner was caught between third and home in an effort to bring in the run which would tie the score. The attendance was small and the collection correspondingly low.

ASSESS DAMAGES

Thousand Dollars a Mile for Pike
through Gettysburg to Littlestown.

Late Friday afternoon the viewers on the turnpike from Willow Grove,
through Gettysburg to Littlestown,
brought in an award of $1000 a mile for the 22 miles. Interest of $660 was added from June 28, 1913, when the road was taken over by the State.

At that time the company had a deficit of $677.18. The estimated cost of the road was $3829.47 a mile the award of the viewers being little more than one-fourth that much.

Last week damages were assessed for the portion from Franklin county to Willow Grove, a distance of 4.3 miles, the company receiving $9567.
50. The difference is explained by the greater difficulty in the original construction on the mountain.

WILL REBUILD BLUE MOUNTAIN

Expect to Start Operations on Mountain Resort the Early Part of Next Month. Old Hotel Greatly Missed
this Summer.

Work on a new hotel on the site of the old Blue Mountain House is expected to start August 1.

The hotel will probably be of concrete and will be about the same size as the old hotel but will not contain as many rooms. It will be of modern architecture and will be completed by next spring.

The Western Maryland Railway Company is supposed to be behind the project for the new hotel. It will be managed, it is said, by Messrs. Gibbons & Bond, the managers of the Blue Mountain House before it was burned down.

Traffic to the mountain has been very heavy during the early part of this season and practically all the cottages are filled. The smaller hotels have all a large number of guests but the Blue Mountain House is greatly missed and it is with some difficulty that the usual mountain frequenters are cared for.

Buena Vista Springs Hotel has had a large tourist trade this year but the need of another hotel to replace the old Blue Mountain House, destroyed by fire last summer, is keenly felt and the Western Maryland, desiring to increase its passenger traffic to the resort as much as possible, will, it is believed, push to an early completion the new hostelry.

GRAIN BURNED

Was Set on Fire by Sparks from Threshing Engine.

Sparks from a steam engine started a blaze in a load of grain at Elmer Hostetter's, on the Lawyer farm, near Littlestown, Thursday afternoon, destroying the entire load, including the carriages on the wagon,
and severely burning one of the horses.

Mr. Hostetter was engaged in threshing out of the field, hauling the grain to the machine with two wagons. One load was standing near the engine as the other was being unloaded, when sparks from the smoke stack started the fire.

Fortunately, two horses were in the wagon and the burning load was taken away from the building. To save the wagon, the team was driven over a steep embankment and upset.
The carriages were destroyed and one of the horses was badly burned, and some damage was done to the running part of the wagon.

There was only the lapse of a few moments from the time the fire started on the wagon until the entire load was ablaze. The wagon was only a few feet from the machine and the burning straw would soon have spread the flames.

Judging from the other loads, there were about thirty-five bushels of grain on the wagon.

Mrs. J. Harry Huber, of Springs

minor body bruises. The grade of the crossing is a trifle higher than that of the pavement.

INVENTS A NEW KIND OF COAL

Boiling Springs Man Manufactures
it and Says it Can be Sold for Four Dollars and a Half a Ton.
Is Tried out.

"Boulets" (pronounce it to suit yourself) is the name that Dr. B. E.
Gamble, of Boiling Springs, has given to his invention of an artificial coal nugget which, it is asserted, is marketable at a considerable reduction in price compared to that obtaining for the real article.

The invention, upon which Dr.
Gamble began working while he was located at Bowmansdale, was thoroughly tried out this week. Twenty pounds of the new coal produced boiling water in twenty-five minutes in a big furnace. The ash that remained was fine and powdery and without clinkers.

Dr. Gamble has perfected a machine which compresses the fine coal dirt or culm of either anthracite or bituminous coal when mixed with the chemicals that he employs. Therein lies the novelty of the discovery, which it is said, eliminates the objectionable smoke-producing pitch hitherto used and now employed in the German processes of making the coal billets. Wood pulp is one of the materials used to bind the culm into marketable billets about the size of egg coal.

Dr. Gamble's invention is fully covered by patents.

Exact figures as to its cost of manufacture have not been computed, but according to rough estimates it is believed that the new fuel can be sold at about $4.50 and perhaps less. It is the assertion of its inventor that it produces a greater heat and a quicker fire than real coal. The inventor has not yet made any plans for putting the product on the market.

SAY MRS. CARMAN RAN UPSTAIRS

Cook is Said to Have Told Story to Friend.

'MYSTERIOUS' WOMAN FOUND

Another Physician's Wife Says She Threatened Dr. Carman's Life a Year or So Ago.

Mineola, N. Y., July 11.—District Attorney Smith received information which, if true, shatters the alibi of Mrs. Florence C. Carman, in jail here, charged with the murder of Mrs. Louise D. Bailey in the office of the prisoner's husband, Dr. Edwin Carman, at Freeport.

Two witnesses told the district attorney that they heard Celia Coleman, Mrs. Carman's colored cook, telling a friend that at the time the shot was fired she was in her bedroom on the top floor, and when she started downstairs she met Mrs. Carman coming up.

The cook, it is said, added that Mrs. Carman was fully dressed, wearing the white waist and blue skirt described by Elwood T. Bardes as the costume of the woman he saw walking away from the murder window. The mistress told the cook to go to her room and stay there.

Mrs. Alfred Parris, of 43 Washington street, Rockville Center, is being sought as the woman to whom Celia Coleman made this admission. The names of the witnesses who claim to have overheard the conversation are being closely guarded by the district attorney. He will produce them at Mrs. Carman's examination at Freeport on Monday.

The Coleman woman testified at the inquest that she was in the kitchen washing dishes at the time that Mrs. Bailey was killed, and that she had been in the kitchen all the time after dinner until the shot was fired. She also said that no one passed through the kitchen during that time, and she did not see anybody in the rear of the house.

Two witnesses, Miss Hazel Coombes and Archie Post, testified to seeing Mrs. Carman about the lower door of the house a few minutes before Mrs. Bailey was killed, and both said she wore a white waist and blue skirt.

One of the "mysterious" unidentified women who have been mentioned as threatening the life of Dr. Carman was eliminated as a factor in the Bailey mystery, when Mrs. Horace Evans, wife of a physician who was instrumental in having Dr. Carman dismissed from the board of health of Freeport, declared that she was the woman who tried to attack Dr. Carman at the South Shore Yacht club a year or two ago.

Dr. Evans, formerly professor of anatomy at Cornell university, came to Freeport and began to practice medicine five years ago. As a result of the conditions he found in Freeport he complained to the state board of health and Dr. Carman was let out.

Since then, Dr. Evans declares, he had been persecuted by the "Freeport ring," has twice been beaten and his telephone and mail have been tampered with.

NEARLY LYNCH SUFFRAGETTE

"Fury" Assaults King George and Police Protect Her From Crowd.

Perth, Scotland, July 11.—A militant "fury" narrowly escaped being lynched after she had made a personal attack upon King George in this city.

While the king was riding through the city the woman, with a suffrage banner in her hand, dashed from the police lines and leaped upon the running horse, shouting: "You must stop forcible feeding; we will tolerate it no longer."

The woman then tried to open the door of the automobile to get at the king, but was unable to do so, and before she could be seized she had smashed the glass and was trying to unlock the door from the inside.

Police dragged her from the automobile, but the crowd surged forth. Mounted policemen with riot sticks beat off the infuriated Scots, and probably saved the woman's life. The woman was later identified as Rhoda Fleming, of Glasgow.

CHARGES U. S. PLANS TO GRAB MEXICO

Senor Moseno Attacks President's Policy.

Vera Cruz, Mex., July 11.—Querido Moseno, former Mexican minister of commerce and labor, before departing on board the Espagne for Cuba and the United States, violently criticized the policy of the United States toward Mexico.

As he sat in the forward saloon of the vessel, Senor Moseno looked through a porthole toward the American flag flying in Vera Cruz and shook his fist in rage.

He insisted that he was in a position to produce proofs that there existed a "secret platform" of the Progressive party in the United States, of which Colonel Theodore Roosevelt was cognizant and in which he concurred, looking to the disruption of Mexico and the acquisition ultimately by the United States of all the territory between the Rio Grande and Panama.

He said that Francisco Escudero, who was minister of foreign relations in Venustiano Carranza's cabinet, has letters which to him are conclusive evidence of his allegations, and declared he hoped to be able to produce these letters at the proper time.

RULING ON SCALE INSPECTION

Those Used in Mines and For Weighing Persons Not Under State Bureau.

Harrisburg, Pa., July 11. An opinion was given by the attorney general's department to James Sweeney, state chief of standards, to the effect that inspectors of weights and measures have no jurisdiction in regard to automatic weighing scales for the purpose of weighing persons only, or over the scales used by mining companies to weigh coal for the purpose of determining the wages payable to miners.

REBELS TAKE GUADALAJARA

Second City of Mexico Captured by Gen. Obregon.

GUAYMAS IS EVACUATED

Huerta's Enemies Are Now Nearer Mexico City Than at Any Time Since the Revolution Started.

Satillo, Mex., July 11.—Guadalajara, capital of Jalisco, and second city in size and importance in Mexico, was captured by the Constitutional army of the northwest, led by General Alvaro Obregon.

Guaymas, a port on the west coast under siege for nearly a year, is reported to have been evacuated.

Obregon's forces, which are loyal to General Carranza, are now in striking distance of Mexico City, some 300 miles to the southeast, but are not considered sufficient to cope alone with Huerta in his last stand at or near the capital.

Progress of the investment of San Luis Potosi by General Pablo Gonzales' army from the east also is reported. It is probable that Obregon and Gonzales may be able to join their forces soon and march upon the capital.

Obregon's victory was sweeping. He captured 5000 prisoners, cut to pieces the Huerta force that resisted him and sent the remnant that did not fall into the flight of panic. Cavalry is pursuing these few demoralized bands, and the retreat toward Mexico City is reported to be cut off.

General Obregon captured fifteen troop trains and eight cannon. Seven machine guns, plenty of rifles and rifle ammunition and two carloads of cannon ammunition were abandoned by the Huertistas.

The rebels now are nearer to the capital than Villa got by the capture of Aguascalientes, and in much better position to attack it. It is thought that Obregon will next march on Irapuato, the railroad junction connecting the City of Mexico with northern and western Mexico, and about 150 miles from the capital, and it is not doubted that he will seize that place with ease.

Guadalajara, being almost entirely sympathetic with the rebel cause, still furnish, it is estimated, with the outlying districts, fully 15,000 recruits, and with these Obregon will have a formidable army.

Villa-Carranza Pact Is Signed.

Torreon, Mex., July 11.—Vindication of the conduct of General Villa, his speedy return to the front of the central advance on Mexico City, with General Felipe Angeles as chief of artillery and the clear definition of General Villa's attitude toward General Carranza, the "first chief," are reported to be the cardinal points of a statement promised by representatives of Carranza and Villa concerning the conciliation conference.

TROOPS POUR INTO CAPITAL

Huerta Prepares Large Force to Make Last Stand Against Rebels.

Mexico City, July 11.—Federal troops are pouring into the capital. Provisional President Huerta is preparing for a final stand, and it is expected that within a week fully 40,000 well-equipped soldiers will be quartered here.

Many of the large siege guns that were at San Luis Potosi when the revolutionists began their southern campaign have been brought to the capital and mounted.

General Rubio Navarette arrived from Jalapa with two trains of troops. It is expected that he will act as second in command to General Blanquet, the minister of war, in the defense of the capital.

General Garcia Pena, who has recently commanded the Vera Cruz division, has been retired at his own request. His retirement from the army makes it possible to appoint him for minister, a post from which he might be elevated to the provisional presidency.

Sir Christopher Craddock, commander of the British ships on the east coast, arrived from Vera Cruz for a conference with Sir Lionel Carden, the British minister. It is said he will make arrangements for sending a large force of British marines to Mexico City when the rebels approach the capital.

La Trusana published a report that the police have discovered a revolutionary plot, and have arrested several persons implicated in the conspiracy.

SENDS VILLA A BIBLE

Asks If Huerta Has One, Saying He Needs Book to Save Mexico. Torreon, Mex., July 11.—General Villa has received a Bible from the American Bible society. It bears this inscription: "Senor Francisco Villa: This book has made the United States and England great. And this book will save Mexico."

When the captor of Torreon and Zacatecas saw the caption he is reported to have said: "Has Huerta one? Send him one. He needs a book to save Mexico."

The testimony of these two witnesses was largely instrumental in causing the authorities to arrest Mrs. Edwin Carman and formally charge her with killing Mrs. Louise Bailey while the latter was in Dr. Carman's office at Freeport, N. Y., on the night of Tuesday, June 29. They are Miss Madeline Carman, the fourteen-year-old daughter of the accused, who contradicted several of her mother's statements, and Elwood T. Bardes, who says he was an eyewitness to the tragedy and who told of seeing a woman fleeing from the murder window.

BUYS AMMUNITION WITH WARSHIPS

Greece Also Would Hire American Gunners.

Philadelphia, July 11.—Though all of the details regarding the sale to Greece of the battleships Mississippi and Idaho were supposed to have been made public by Secretary of State Bryan, the fact that the sale included ammunition for the guns of these ships was first given to the public when Count P. D. Tsakalof, of Athens, a captain in the royal Hellenic navy, who negotiated the purchase of the ships, confirmed the rumor that the next shells fired against the Turkish government might be the high explosives manufactured by the United States.

The count also said that he would make an effort to hire men from all branches of the United States navy whose enlistments had expired to man the ships and especially work the guns.

"We bought the vessels just as they are," the count said, as he lighted a cigarette.

The count, who was first in this country last February, when he approached this government about the sale of the ships, then said he meant that Greece had bought all of the ammunition on board each ship, and that each ship would have every magazine fully stored when it was delivered to his government.

During his stay in Philadelphia the count has carefully inspected the navy yard at League Island and said his trip had been very profitable.

Boat Upsets; Four Drown.

Brantford, Ont., July 11.—In a boating accident Thomas Garnet, a rich farmer; his two children and a maid lost their lives on the Grand river. The other occupant of the boat, a farm hand, swam to the river bank and gave the alarm, but the boat and its occupants had disappeared before aid arrived. The farm hand was unable to give any details of the accident except to say that the boat overturned and threw them into the water.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of Roy R. Stroup, who departed this life July 12, 1910

Where is the face we loved to greet,
The form that graced the fireside seat,
The gentle smile, the winning way,
That blessed our life's path day by day,
Where fled those accents soft and low
That thrilled our hearts four years ago.

Oh! vacant is the fireside chair,
The smile that won, no longer there,
From door and hall, from porch and lawn,
The echo of that voice is gone,
And we who linger only know,
How much we lost four years ago.

TO SNAPSHOT SUN 20,000 FEET UP

Professor Todd Will Photograph Rays During Eclipse.

TO SET ALTITUDE RECORD.

Hopes to Solve Mystery of Sun Which Has Baffled Astronomers For Ages.
Amherst Professor Has Had Considerable Experience in Ballooning and Is Expert Photographer.

Professor David Todd of Amherst college has sailed from New York for the purpose of carrying out a unique experiment in Riga, Russia, next month. Professor Todd intends to ascend 20,000 feet in an aeroplane and make photographs of the sun's rays during an eclipse which will occur in August. The announcement caused much interest in aviation circles, inasmuch as in order to carry out his plan Professor Todd will have to set a new mark for an altitude record, says the New York Tribune. The present record is a trifle over 19,000 feet, and in making it the aviators found it necessary to use oxygen helmets and other methods to prevent being overcome by the changes in pressure incidental to the high altitude.

Professor Todd has had considerable experience in ballooning and is an expert photographer. If he succeeds in finding an aviator and a machine capable of taking him to the great height mentioned above there is a possibility of his hanging up a new mark for both aviators and photographers to shoot at. Professor Todd expects to solve the mystery of the corona of the sun, which has baffled astronomers for ages. Before he sailed he said:

"There are two predominant reasons for my selection of an aeroplane to study the eclipse, which will occur on Aug. 20 and 21 and will be visible only partly in the United States. The first reason is because unfavorable weather conditions could make my long trip and laborious preparations all result in vain. I can rise easily above any of these factors in an aeroplane and will go just as high as a French aeronaut will dare to carry me.

Expects Fine Photograph.

"The second reason is because of the peculiar power of absorbing the light of the corona that is contained in the atmosphere immediately surrounding the sun. From the ground it is impossible to reproduce the corona on a photographic plate with any absolute accuracy. And the correctness of reproduction means much toward solving the mysteries of the phenomenon.

"Twenty thousand feet above the earth the power of absorption is materially reduced, and I expect to obtain the best photographs of the corona that have ever been taken.

"This is the smallest expedition that I have ever taken. My wife, my daughter, Mildred, and one or two immediate members of my family will form the party. My first work after reaching Riga will be to select a site for observation and pick out a suitable place for the starting and landing of the aeroplane. The Russian government has co-operated with me most graciously, having furnished passports, free transportation for my party and instruments and offering the services of a guide and interpreter.

To Engage French Air Man.

"Once settled I plan to go direct to Paris and engage an aeronaut and aeroplane. I do not anticipate any difficulty in engaging one, for I feel that the spirit of the undertaking will appeal particularly to the inherent love for scientific advancement that seems to be a part of every Gaul.

"Now, just bear in mind that the eclipse is due to occur at approximately 12:30 o'clock in Riga, which would be about 7:30 o'clock in the morning in New York, and that it will last only two minutes and fourteen seconds. Everything that is to be done must be planned to the minutest detail."

The mystery of ages which Professor Todd's photographs may solve is whether the great bands and streamers of pale light, some straight and some curved, proceed from the gigantic upheavals of vaporized metals and gases in the sun itself and are reflected to the earth by comparatively cold gases or concrete particles forming the corona or whether the light comes from incandescent material in the corona.

Women Win Right to Jobs.

Women of New York state who were disappointed over being excluded from the civil service examinations for the posts of directors and superintendents in the new state bureau of employment will have another opportunity to qualify for these places, according to Commissioner James M. Lynch of the state department of labor. At Commissioner Lynch's suggestion the civil service commission will hold a new examination, which will supplement the previous test, open to men only.

Fly Fighting in Panama.

As a further safeguard to public health the canal government has proposed that the numerous fly stables in the heart of Panama City be concentrated in one location, where they can be supervised and cleanliness maintained. The present stables are great breeding places for flies.

Armored Vessel of 1530.

Armored vessels of war had an earlier origin than is generally supposed. The Knights of St. John of Jerusalem built in 1530 a war galley, the Santa Anna, which was protected with a cuirass of lead, to its great advantage in sea fights. The Santa Anna had another modern feature; a contemporary chronicler narrates with pleased astonishment that the vessel carried a bakery, which permitted the crew to enjoy the luxury of fresh bread.

The Mother of a Hero

A crash, a flash, a momentary triumph. The blaze of sun from out a sky of blue. And some one lies a heap of huddled garments. With heart now still that once sang brave and true. A blur, smoke against the mountains rugged. A buzzard winging slowly through the sky. And miles away a little mother waiting. And praying to the gracious God on high.

A moan, a stream of lifeblood ebbing swiftly. A pair of eyes that close in endless sleep. A bullet, sharp and sudden in its coming. That leaves a wound so horrible and deep.

A paper, printed large in glowing headlines. That says, "He left a mother next of kin."

A country's loud approval of a hero. And one small woman sobbing through the din.

A fear, a tear, a pair of hands clasped tightly. A mind that sees a sturdy little boy. A tiny baby face with roguish dimples. A sound of laughter filled with childish joy.

A nation's hero, dying first, with glory! A man in spirit, though a boy in years; A soldier shot in battle, fighting bravely; A little mother smiling through the tears!

MICHIGAN MAY MAKE LAWS AGAINST JAPS.

Like California, Many In That State Oppose Colonization Plan.

Michigan stands with California on the question of receiving the Japanese as settlers if the statements of state officers and county officers express the views of the people. Former Governor Chase S. Osborn announced his candidacy for the year for the Republican nomination for governor, saying:

"I know nothing as to the authenticity of the report of a Japanese colonization scheme for Michigan, but such a plan would be neither practical nor desirable."

Secretary of State Martindale, also a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, expressed similar views, adding that he favors exclusion legislation.

State Land Commissioner Carton declared the state should take steps to prevent any move of the sort reported. Governor Ferris has refused to comment on the proposition pending such time as he has no official knowledge of a movement of Japanese toward Michigan agricultural lands.

Labor leaders are planning to take action, and several have declared that, whether this colonization scheme goes through or not, there will be bills presented at the next session of the legislature to prevent Japanese from owning land in Michigan.

TO NOMINATE 200 CADETS.

Candidates For West Point to Be Named Next Year by Congressmen.

Upward of 200 cadetships at the West Point Military academy are to be filled in 1915. In response to numerous inquiries on the subject, the war department announced the list of cadetships for which candidates are to be appointed to the academy on the nominations of senators and representatives in congress. The entrance examination will be held the last Tuesday in March of next year.

Under the law each person nominated for appointment as a cadet has to be an actual resident of the congressional district or territory from which appointed, or, if appointed from a state at large, an actual resident of that state.

Appointments are to be made by senators from twenty-seven states and by representatives from thirty-one states. The following is a list of the states, with the names of the senators who are to make appointments:

Arizona, Ashurst and Smith; Arkansas, Clarke; California, Works; Colorado, Shafroth; Connecticut, McLean and Branley; Florida, Bryan; Idaho, Borah; Illinois, Lewis; Indiana, Shively; Kentucky, Camden; Louisiana, Ransdell; Michigan, Smith and Townsend; Minnesota, Clapp; Missouri, Reed; Nebraska, Norris; Nevada, Newlands; New Mexico, Catron; New York, O'Gorman; North Carolina, Overman; Ohio, Pomeroy; Oregon, Lane; Pennsylvania, Oliver; Tennessee, Shields; Utah, Smart; Washington, Jones and Rydman; Wisconsin, La Follette, and La Follette; Wyoming, Clark.

INDIAN BORN IN GERMANY.

Full Blooded Sioux Has Our Consul at Barmen as Her Godfather.

The first full blooded American Indian ever born in Germany recently saw the light of day near Dortmund, Westphalia. The child's father is a Sioux Indian from the Pine Ridge agency, William Bear Shield, and the mother is Mary Bear Shield. The father is now in America, but the mother is a member of an Indian troupe touring Germany with a circus.

The birth took place in a typical American prairie wagon while the troupe was en route from Dortmund to Becklinghausen.

The mother was anxious that her little papoose, who is a girl, should be duly registered in the German records as an American citizen and a Christian. To that end she sought the nearest American consul, George Eugene Eager, who represents the United States at Barmen.

The baby was born on June 29, but as the Fourth of July was approaching the baptism was deferred until then. Mr. Eager stood as godfather for the child, who was christened Maria Consuela.

CHAMBERLAIN'S NOTABLE CAREER

Of Humble Birth, He Rose to Lofty Eminence.

WAS ONCE A FIERY RADICAL

Flaunted by the Aristocracy and Suspected in House of Commons, He Won Recognition Nevertheless and in Later Life Championed Imperialistic Conservation.

The death of Joseph Chamberlain, the famous English statesman, removes one of the most striking figures from British politics in the past generation.

The once famous Birmingham Radical, who used to be regarded in the exclusive circles of the British aristocracy almost as the apostle of red revolution, but who lived to be a champion of imperialistic conservatism, was born in 1836, not, as is popularly supposed, in the city with which his life history is associated, but at Camberwell, a suburb of London.

The son of a Birmingham manufacturer of screws, Joseph Chamberlain helped to make the business famous as well as successful. As a young enthusiastic Radical he went into local politics. Three times mayor of the city he left his stamp on it in fine public buildings and many other municipal improvements. The city sent him to the house of commons in 1876. But in spite of his abilities nobody expected that he would become on the larger stage the dictator of two parties and that his decision at a critical moment was to change the whole political history of England.

Beau Brummel of Commons.

For a considerable time after he entered the house Chamberlain was suspected of being a republican at heart, of desiring to do away with the crown and incidentally to end the house of lords. The best dressed man in the commons, his single eyeglass, the orchid in his buttonhole and his superior manner were not regarded as reassuring. Was not Robespierre the dandy of the French revolution?

One of the best debaters in the house, Chamberlain got recognition from his party. Gladstone disliked him, but needed him. So he gave him the place of president of the board of trade in 1880. And between that time and the introduction of the home rule bill the gentleman from Birmingham took his place definitely among the Liberal leaders.

Chamberlain was for home rule if the Irish members were to be continued in the imperial parliament. Gladstone, it was said, would compromise to meet the other's views. But when the time came the leader ignored his colleague, threw him over and went ahead as if there had been no opposition in the party. Chamberlain got out of the government and took some of the strongest of the liberals with him. These, under his command, joined with the Conservatives, and the Liberal-Unionist party was formed.

Associated closely with the leaders of the Tory party, in opposition to a radical measure which the aristocrats hated, Chamberlain, the former republican, became an aristocrat himself.

In 1887 Mr. Chamberlain visited the United States as chairman of the fisheries commission. A treaty satisfactory in its terms to both countries grew out of that mission. The following year he returned and on Nov. 15 married Miss Endicott, the only daughter of W. C. Endicott, secretary of war under Cleveland. He had been married twice before.

Held Responsible For Boer War.

In 1895 Mr. Chamberlain astonished his friends by taking the then comparatively unimportant place of secretary of state for the colonies. He soon made it important. The Boer war did the rest. That struggle of 50,000 farmers against the whole British empire kept all eyes turned to the minister.

Bitterly assailed in the house and outside it, as passionately defended by his admirers, Chamberlain kept cool, even when news of one defeat after another struck consternation into the nation. He succeeded in keeping the confidence of the party in power in his policy.

When the war was over he became the real leader of the party, though Mr. Balfour was its titular head as prime minister. Chamberlain, the radical, turned imperialist, proceeded to give an extension to his theory. He turned his back on the free trade belief of his youth and became the active advocate of what he called "tariff reform," or "fair trade"—in reality of protection. His proposal was that trade should be regulated with a view to the best interests of the empire as a whole and not with regard to the interests of a part of it, whether that part was England or any other.

Liberals and Tories who were opposed to protection had feared that he would completely dominate the Conservatives in a great campaign and end by taking the office of prime minister himself.

Albert Ayer of Omaha will receive $10,000 by the will of Mrs. Atkinson of Dayton, O., for "being a gentleman," the will says. Ten years ago Ayer was of assistance to Mrs. Atkinson's daughter in a railroad wreck. Ayer is a poor man.

Made Them Even.

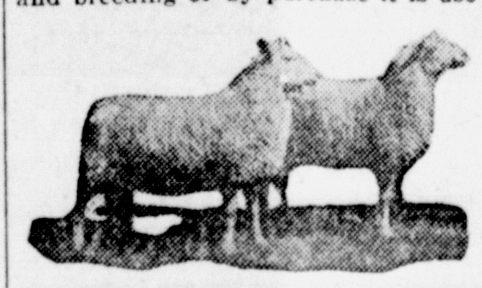

Hogan and Murphy were on their way to work early one morning, when Hogan, being a few yards in front of Murphy, stooped down and picked up a dollar. "Sure," said Murphy, "that's my dollar ye have found." Hogan stood amazed, saying as he gave Murphy the coin, "Thin that squares up the dollar I owe ye."

ANIMAL HUSBANDRY

CULLING THE EWES.

Three Essentials in Maintaining Efficiency of the Flock.

High stock efficiency must be the standard if sheep are to return the profit they should. We can no longer afford to carry over winter ewes not fit to produce good lambs. Nor will it pay to keep those that shear very light fleeces. The flock that promises most in the way of money making is that in which all ewes shear heavy fleeces and are able to bring good lambs. As long as it is possible to obtain such ewes by proper selection and breeding or by purchase it is essential to maintain the flock.

The Cheviot sheep were first brought to this country in 1838, but not many were brought until much later, and even now they are not numerous. Their fleece has been against them. Not many years ago Cheviot fleeces were more often than not full of kemp, hairy, coarse fibers, and were light. Of late years this kempiness has been largely bred out, though it is still found in the poorer specimens. As a rule, however, the fleeces run good. The Cheviot has excellent mutton form, is a hardy sheep and no doubt will be more popular as the years go by.

less and inexcusable to keep those that are not fitted to give both products—lamb and wool—most efficiently.

It is every man's desire to make his ewe flock better. If the standard is to be raised a pure bred ram must be used every season. Changing breeds of the rams used is in the majority of cases ruinous. Generous and intelligent feeding is of course essential. But the best of breeding and feeding alone will not lead surely in the desired direction unless rigid culling is effected. Of the three essentials to flock efficiency culling is perhaps not most important, but it is most liable to neglect.

Every spring while lambs are young and shearing in progress the flockmaster can readily point out several ewes that for one cause or another are not deserving of a place in the efficient flock. But if they are not in some way marked, as by clipping off the end of one ear, by fall their identity is lost, for those are generally the ewes that fatten up by next breeding time and appear too good to discard. Every year the ewe flock goes uncultured the efficiency of that flock decreases.

VACCINATING SWINE.

Proper Place to Inject Serum is in Tissues of Fore Leg.

When a full grown hog is vaccinated in the ham the vaccination mark shows after the animal is slaughtered and makes the ham less attractive. The packers are objecting to the vaccination of hogs in the ham for this reason and are discriminating in prices against animals so vaccinated. Where little pigs are vaccinated in the ham they outgrow the mark of the vaccination before they go to market.

The federal department of agriculture has recently issued a bulletin recommending that the serum be injected into the loose tissues between the fore leg and the body. This avoids the depreciation in value to which the packers object. Those having mature hogs vaccinated would do well to bear this point in mind and ask the veterinarian to follow the suggestion of the department as to the place to inject the serum.

Starting With Live Stock.

The live stock industry is absolutely dependent on the raising of the necessary crops to feed the animals, says the Kansas Farmer. Animals cannot be raised successfully without proper feed. It would be folly to attempt it. Increased interest in diversified farming increases interest in the handling of live stock. It should be planned to have the farm properly fenced. This equipment is always necessary where various classes of farm animals are kept. Beginners in live stock farming should first be sure that they are able to produce the necessary feed and have the other equipment needed before attempting to raise the animals.

Government Hog Tonic.

The formula for the government hog tonic is as follows: Wood charcoal, one pound; sulphur, one pound; sodium chloride (common salt), two pounds; sodium bicarbonate, two pounds; sodium hyposulphate, two pounds; sodium sulphate, one pound; antimony sulphide (black antimony), one pound. This formula is an admirable tonic to keep before hogs at all times. Where mature hogs are badly infested with worms it probably will not be a thoroughly effective worm remedy, but where kept constantly accessible its effect will be to greatly reduce the trouble with worms.

Forage Crops For Hogs.

Experiments at the Missouri station proved that clover was the most profitable single forage crop for pork production. Next to clover, rape and oats produced the largest number of pounds of pork per acre.

VENICE A DREAM CITY

Approached by Viaduct Over Two Miles of Breezy Sea.

Dwelling Place of the Doges Has Kept Its Medieval Aspect Albeit
Its Comforts Have Kept Pace With Modern Progress.

London.—Venice is the dream city of the world. You cannot imagine it before seeing it and after leaving it I think it must be hard to believe in its existence. Traveling, while probably the best brain stimulant and mind enlarger known, is apt to spell disillusion most of the time. Foreign places, after all, are amazingly like home; foreigners seem to be just plain human beings doing commonplace things in queer ways and the "wonders" we have anticipated with excitement from childhood dwindle dolefully on being visited.

The only scenery I have found which exactly coincided with my previous fancy is in the Highlands of Scotland, and the only city thus far which has surpassed my fondest expectations is Venice.

In these days you usually enter a town by that most depressing of backdoors, a railroad yard, hemmed about with dingy traffic and squalid buildings. Venice is approached, not through desolate wastes of "improved real estate," not through the grime of manufacturing suburbs, but by a viaduct, across more than two miles of breezy sea, on whose horizon seems to lie some fair mirage in the form of a city—a jewel city set clean cut in water and light. Suddenly the sea is blotted from about you by a wall. You are in a railroad station.

"Just like other railroad stations," you say cynically to yourself, and drift toward the exit to find a cab. You step forth and, presto! the dream begins—or at least it did for me. Of course, I had heard there were canals for streets and gondolas for transportation in Venice, but without just realizing what this meant. Here before me was a beautiful sweep of green water which I knew, by the handsome stone fronted buildings that bordered it opposite, must be the Grand canal. Here at my feet was a fleet of the most graceful small boats ever designed, long and black and narrow, each with the scimitar like sword of medieval Venice decking its prow, each with a sunburned, picturesquely dressed oarsman at its stern.

Quietly, with none of that clamor usual in Italy, I was motioned aboard one of these fairy craft, my baggage was stowed forward and I was propelled in silence through shadowy lanes of limpid water to my hotel.

Piazza del Signori.

Into the front door of which I stepped right from the gondola. For the arrival of a stranger in a strange city, it was all preposterously lovely. And I may say at once that after nearly a week here I am still tranquilly dazed with the beauty of the place.

In practically all respects, save that of comfort, Venice has kept its medieval aspect. This is due to the absence of horses or of wheeled vehicles of any kind. All traffic passes through the waterways in barges or gondolas. The narrow streets which interlace between the canals are used only by pedestrians, and are spotlessly clean, somewhat like strips of courtyard of American flat buildings, save for the bright display of merchandise and the endless passing of the crowds. To walk about in these streets is a pleasant mystery. They wind ceaselessly, and just when you think you are surely coming out somewhere near the spot you were foolish enough to aim for, you are brought up abruptly by a canal with no bridge, and have to adventure some long detour.

Your recompense is that the jumping off place at which you emerged was likely to have given you one more of the inexhaustible variety of picturesque views which will never cease to draw artists to Venice as long as the sea tides wash the canals and the stones of the palaces stand.

"NO SURRENDER," CRY OF UNIONISTS

Carson Says the Time Has Come For Action.

TRouble MAY BE NEAR

"Provisional Government" Formed
in Ulster Gives Leader a Free Hand to Act.

Belfast, July 11.—The "provisional government" formed by the Ulster Unionists at its first meeting gave Sir Edward Carson a free hand to take whatever action he may think necessary in calling the Ulster volunteers to arms. The men were declared to be ready for mobilization at a moment's notice.

Sir Edward Carson in a speech declared that the time had come for the loyalists of Ulster to translate their words into action. He said something must be done to compel the British government to make up its mind. Ulster, he declared, was anxious for peace, but was not going to accept peace with surrender.

The "government" issued the following formal statement:

"We stand willing to accept any proposal preserving the rights under the imperial parliament, but owing to the lack of confidence in the home rule bill, we are compelled to continue to resist any attempt to impose upon us the authority of the home rule parliament. The Ulster executive has been instructed to act accordingly."

Full military honors were accorded by the Ulster Volunteers to Sir Edward Carson when he arrived with the Marquis of Londonderry, Viscount Castlereagh, Walter H. Long and Ronald McNeill and other Unionist members of parliament, to attend the meeting of the so-called provisional government.

A guard of honor, composed of 400 armed volunteers and fifty armed motorcycle dispatch riders, escorted the leaders to the residence of Captain James Craig, the military leader, where they will remain for a week.

The intentions of the provisional government have not been disclosed, but one object of the meeting is the arrangement of an impressive celebration for tomorrow, July 12, or "Orange's Day," in order to "show the government and the people of Great Britain that nothing but the absolute exclusion of Ulster from the operations of the Irish home rule bill will satisfy us."

Major General Sir Cecil Macready, who is in command of the military of the Belfast district, has been in conference with Premier Asquith regarding the situation, and the police have been instructed to act with great care, so as to give no excuse for an outbreak.

Carson Has Alarming Reports.
London, July 11.—Just before he left for Ireland, Sir Edward Carson expressed regret that he was going back to Ulster without a token of peace and good will from the government.

He said he had received the most alarming reports in regard to the intense desire of Ulster for immediate action.

At about the same time that Sir Edward Carson left London Captain Craig announced at Belfast that there would be a special meeting of the Ulster provisional government. This is the first time that such a meeting has been called since the provisional government was instituted. It is now called at the request of Sir Edward Carson.

WESTINGHOUSE STRIKE OVER
Workmen Go Back to Shops and State Police Retire.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 11.—The first action under the new era of peace between the Westinghouse corporation and the 12,000 employees who were on strike was taken when nearly 2000 of the workers returned to their posts in the East Pittsburgh plants. By next Monday it is believed all the strikers will be back on their old jobs.

Captain Adams, in command of the state police, who were on guard, decided after he had gone over the situation carefully that the constabulary was no longer needed and gave orders for the men to break camp.

Risks Life to Save Wife.
New York, July 11.—Hanging by one hand to the sill of a third-story window in his burning home in Brooklyn, John Sarsken supported his wife with the other arm until the flames reached him. Then he and the woman fell. Mrs. Sarsken was caught in the street below by men who had been watching Sarsken's endeavors to save his wife, but Sarsken suffered a fractured skull and is believed to be dying.

U. S. Steel Orders Increasing.
New York, July 11.—An increase of 24,597 tons was reported by the United States Steel corporation in its report of unfilled orders as of June 30 last. The total tonnage for the month was 4,032,857, compared with 3,998,265 tons reported for May 31. In June a year ago the tonnage was 5,807,317 while in 1912 it was 5,807,346 and 3,913,058 in 1911.

TRAIN ROBBERS TAKE PRISONER IN HOLD-UP

Masked Bandits Capture Railroader as They Loot Safe.

St. Louis, July 11.—Two masked men held up the westbound "Katy Flyer," on the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad, near Matson, sixty miles northwest of St. Louis, captured a track walker, who surprised them as they were robbing the train, and took him away with them.

This was learned from members of the train crew. The tale of the robbery was told by A. L. Mudd, conductor of the train, and by John Snadley, engineer.

The train, which left St. Louis for Texas, stopped at Matson, on the north bank of the Missouri river. There the bandits are supposed to have boarded the train. After the train had gone a short distance the engineer heard a noise behind him, and, turning, saw a man with two revolvers leveled at him.

The bandits made no effort to molest the passengers, but warned them to keep their heads inside the windows. So far as known nothing was taken except the contents of the express safe.

Nahum T. Brown, general agent in St. Louis of the American Express company, said there was no shipment of money in the express safe, but that there were a few packages of jewelry, the value of which he would not estimate.

CLOUDBURST HITS SCRANTON
Three Believed to Be Dead and Hundreds Are Homeless.

Scranton, Pa., July 11.—With three believed to be dead, hundreds homeless, thousands of dollars of property damaged, Scranton and vicinity was visited by a cloudburst that will up the most of the traffic on two or more railroads for three days.

The Lackawanna and the Delaware & Hudson bridges were swept away by the rushing waters and scores of persons were rescued from their homes by the police reserves.

The storm was accompanied by terrific thunder and lightning. Drive by a stiff wind, the streets were soon flooded.

L. W. Stanton, Frank A. Butler, Ray Ellis and Frank Durkin were standing on the bank of Roaring Creek when the raging water washed the ground from under their feet and they were swept into midstream. They clung to a tree that was floating nearby. Ellis was rescued three miles further down, but the others are believed to have perished.

WIRELESS TELEPHONE
FOR WEALTHY ONLY.

Rates So High Only Rich Can Talk
Across Atlantic, Says Marconi.

The wireless telephone will be too expensive to become a public service, but it will be a boon to privileged persons.
William Marconi declared. He has been experimenting in Fawley, England, since the first of the year on the wireless telephone, with such success that he says he will be able to talk to America before 1914 fades.

It is more the achievement that interests him than getting money from the people, he said, but admitted that wealthy persons probably would be willing to pay the high rates. He said only one conversation could be carried on at one time between a station in England and one in America, but of course other stations could be built,
and then each pair could carry on independent conversations. He would not venture to say how much a station would cost, but the wireless telegraph station at Carnarvon, Wales, cost $400,000, and whether it will be necessary to utilize all the apparatus for wireless telephony he was not prepared to say.

He admitted that $500,000 had been spent thus far in experiments. Night is better than day for wireless talking,
he said, and women's voices are heard equally as well as men's, but Italian is better than English, probably because most Italian words have vowel endings. The apparatus has been tried between London and Chelmsford, twenty-nine miles apart. The next step will be between London and Fawley, a distance of seventy miles, and then Marconi will try a conversation across the Atlantic.

SEVENTEEN YEAR LOCUST.

Department of Agriculture Has Defined Its Activity.

The department of agriculture has issued a notice of the appearance of the famous periodical locusts—"seven year," "thirteen year" and "seventeen year." The locust this time has made its debut in West Virginia. The locust takes many years to develop, but there are several recognized broods in different places over the United States.

The brood is common this year all over West Virginia, most of Ohio and with a sprinkling in the counties of Pennsylvania and Virginia. This is the northern variety of the "seventeen year" locust. There is another variety known as the "thirteen year" locust, but this is confined to the extreme south and never extends beyond the Potomac or farther than the southern part of Illinois.

In the grounds of the department of agriculture more than a decade ago some of the insects were collected and allowed to deposit their eggs in the shade trees. A record was made of the time when these eggs were planted, and they hatched out exactly seventeen years afterward, just as the name would indicate.

The locusts really do very little damage and do not injure large trees at all.
They may do a little damage to young nurseries or young orchards, where a great many eggs have been deposited in the tender trees, but even with the young nurseries the bulk of the damage can be headed off by a vigorous pruning back after the eggs have been deposited.

Experiments have been tried with carbolic acid washes and numerous other insecticides. Few of them seem to have any material effect in checking the work of the insect.

TRIUMPH OF MODISTE'S ART

Costume of Pompadour Silk is One of the Prettiest of Styles of the Present Season.

Like a breath of flowers is the beautiful costume of pompadour silk which has been pictured here. Black and white is inadequate to show the artistic picturesque beauty of this gown.
The blouse and draped tunic were of flowered silk having a cream ground with shaded flowers in pink and blue scattered over it. The corsage opening was filled with plain cream net with flat plaitings of the same. The seams were piped with the same gray blue silk which was used for the underskirt and the flat girdle. The tunic was weighted with tassels formed of the flowered silk.

MANY USES FOR THE SCARF

Remarkable Number of Ways by Which Modish Accessories May Be Made Effective.

One of the latest uses of the scarf is to be converted into an elongated fichu by being trimmed all around with a gathered frill. When worn, this frill lies back on the scarf around the neck, but falls forward in front and around the ends.

One of these is in sulphur colored crepe de chine with frills of black silk muslin over white ones.

Another is made of brocade gauze
in purple or deep green, and the frills are in the shade of green chiffon over others of pale mauve harmonizing with the tone of purple. The hat worn with this was a bergerie in purple straw, with cache-peigne of white flowers and green leaves.

The upward curve from the back characterizes many of the new coats as well as a great number of the draperies on skirts. One coat has three basques superposed, each a little shorter than the one beneath, and each curved up toward the waist, the upper one reaching to the chest, where it fastens across with a large button, partly covering a fancy silk waistcoat, the points of which fall below this topmost basque, but over the second
one. These, as well as the lowest, cross over each other and are kept as flat as possible in front, though rather full as regards the sides and back.

The waistcoat in the case has a wide black moire collar which turns back over the top of the coat. Another tailor-made is in white and black check, the sort known as shepherd's plaid; the skirt with a wide flat plait down the front, no other fullness, the coat with basques curved away to the sides and faced with the check put on bias. A waistcoat and wide collar in white pique complete the costume.
A third, with a seam down the front of a plain skirt, is in green satin cloth, with a short coat, the waistcoat cut in one with the collar, and both in white pique, the cuffs matching.

Laura Jean Libbey's Talks on Heart Topics

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.) AGAINST HER PARENTS' WISHES.

I have heard—or dreamt, it may be—
What love is when true
How to test and how to try it,
Is the gift of few.

Who does not know of the family
with an only daughter, who rules with a high hand the home and the hearts of its inmates? She dresses to suit
herself, despite
the mild protests
of her mother and
the annoyance of her father. She entertains a set
of young folks
she likes best,
goes where she pleases, and with whom. She accepts invitations
from escorts whom
she has met but once or twice at a
girl friend's home.

without taking the trouble to mention
it until the day of their going out together arrives, lest her parents might make objection, and she would have the trouble of talking them over to her view and wishes.

The wilful girl is usually overromantic. She considers herself as capable of choosing her own lover in the face of any opposition, just as she has always overruled opposition in selecting her hats and gowns of bizarre slit.
She intends to please herself. She will have no interference in her love affairs.

The dashing young fellow who is living on expectations, visits her home regularly. He is not the type of man her parents would wish for, yet they hope against hope that love will spur him on to get into some successful business, and thus prove his worthiness of her, or, if he fails to make good through not trying, that the glamour will fall from her eyes—and she will see him as others see him.

They do not favor a sporty young man, with a handsome face, who intends that his good looks should do the work for him and earn as a reward a comfortable home to step into
and a wife's well-filled, open pocket book.

In homes where father rules the household, he does not make himself scarce in the parlor when a young man calls upon his daughter. The selfwilled daughter is not averse to letting father know that they can get along without him; that she can never hope for a proposal of marriage under such conditions.

The parents, to whom their daughter's happiness is above all else, allow her to overrule their judgment as to what is best for her by permitting his continued visits. It is not until a girl sees such a fellow in his true colors that she realizes the grievous wrong she did her parents in encouraging the young man against their wishes.

Remember, it matters not to what extent a girl may have her own way
in the household in most instances, she should be governed by her parents' wishes in her heart affairs. Earnest parental eyes look through the most clever ruse's disguise. They are quick to discover "the wolf in sheep's clothing, or the satanic lover with the sacred face."

ROOMY DRESS SAVES WOMAN

Girl's Clothing Acts as a Parachute and Lessens Impact of Long Fall.

Savannah.—Her dress acting as a parachute probably saved the life of Miss Amelia Bernercher of Asheville, N. C., who is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Cox, when she fell from a third-story porch. Saved for a few painful bruises, which have confined her to her bed, Miss Bernercher suffered no injury.

Her presence of mind in grasping the roof of the piazza at the second story and holding on long enough to break the fall helped to save her.

Miss Bernercher's dress spread out and caught the breeze, lessening the impact.

WITH HUERTA OUT, LOOK FOR PEACE

Arrival of Dictator's Family at Vera Cruz.

REBELS ARE HARD TO HANDLE

They Declare Fact That United States is Virtual Ally of Theirs is Detriment Instead of Help—All Parties in Mexico Regard This Government With Disfavor.

The administration at Washington received information that members of General Huerta's family had arrived at Vera Cruz. For some reason this information was guarded rather carefully, and the full significance of the advice received in connection with it could not be ascertained from any authoritative source, says a dispatch to the New York Times. There is no doubt, however, that well informed officials of the government regarded the presence of the Huerta family at Vera Cruz as merely preliminary to the flight of the dictator from the capital.

The advice received were coupled with the information that the wife of Senor Mosen, former minister of foreign affairs in the Huerta cabinet, was with the Huerta party and would wait at Vera Cruz for the arrival of her husband before sailing away from Mexico. From this it was inferred that Huerta and Mosen would leave the City of Mexico together and join their families at Vera Cruz.

There is a growing feeling that with Huerta removed as a factor in the Mexican situation the chief obstacle to a peaceable adjustment of Mexico's troubles will disappear. But the Wilson administration has found it difficult to convince the Constitutionalists that its interest in a speedy settlement is born of a desire to do what is best for Mexico's welfare. As long as the revolutionists found the United States government willing to help along the anti-Huerta cause by its attitude concerning shipments of arms and ammunition into Mexico, they showed an extremely friendly disposition toward the administration. Now, however, they are disposed to forget. At most all that the Constitutionalists are willing to acknowledge is that the refusal of President Wilson to recognize General Huerta as the provisional president de jure of Mexico has been of indirect benefit to their cause.

Our Aid a Detriment. According to the position of the Constitutionalists, the fact that the United States is a virtual ally of theirs is a detriment instead of a help. Their attitude is that, as all parties in Mexico regard this government with disfavor, knowledge that it was giving active assistance to the Constitutionalists' cause would make that party unpopular. This was one of the reasons for the unwillingness of the revolutionary leaders to recognize the efforts the Washington government was making to support the Constitutional side of the issues presented in the Niagara Falls negotiations.

The administration has been tolerant of this attitude. It has been willing to overlook the seeming lack of gratitude involved. The present set purpose of the administration is to bring the troubles in Mexico to an end through peaceful means, and it is not particular as to how that outcome is achieved so long as the danger of intervention is removed. In every possible way it seeks to show the Constitutionalists that it has no desire to interfere in the adjustment of the internal problems of Mexico. It was this spirit that caused the American peace delegates to leave Niagara Falls. Through that course the revolutionary leaders were made to understand that their delegates were free to confer with the plenipotentiaries of Huerta.

There was hopeful feeling that the Constitutionalists leaders have not been unimpressed by the motives that have actuated the United States government and the South American governments.

WHY RICH BUTTER IS YELLOW

Due to Carotin In Cow's Rations, Says Department of Agriculture.

The rich, yellow color demanded by the public in dairy products has been shown to be due primarily to the nature of cow feed. This announcement was made by the department of agriculture as the result of experiments carried on in co-operation with the Missouri state experiment station.

The department's conclusion is that, although to some extent a breed characteristic, the intensity of this yellow color may within certain limits be increased or diminished at will by changing the cow's rations.

Chemical tests show that the yellow color in milk is produced by several well known pigments found in green plants, the principal one being carotin, so called because it constitutes a large part of the coloring matter of carrots. The other yellow pigments in milk are known as xanthophylls. These are found in a number of plants, including grass, but are especially abundant in yellow autumn leaves.

This explains the fact that fresh green grass and carrots increase the yellowness of butter. Green grass, it is stated, is probably richer in carotin than any other dairy feed and cows feeding on it produce the highest colored butter.

She Loved Him For His Courage

By LOUISE B. CUMMINGS

Tom Gregory won a girl's heart by bravery. She was not a witness to it, but she heard all about it, and Tom was from that moment a little god to her. This is the story of how Tom distinguished himself. One night, hearing something in his room, he jumped over the footboard right into a man's arms. Tom clinched with the robber who dragged him out of the room, downstairs and through the door into the yard. During this moving scuffle the burglar made several attempts to put his hand to his hip pocket to get his revolver, but Gregory anticipated his design and felled it. At last Gregory got his antagonist into a position where he could himself draw the revolver. He did so, cocked it and held the muzzle against his enemy's ear. The feeling of the cold steel in that position had a soothing effect on the burglar, and he ceased to struggle. Gregory shouted for a policeman. One came and took the catch to the station Gregory, who was in his nightshirt went back to bed.

The next morning all the papers contained accounts of the capture, and Gregory, who had gone to sleep after the affair was over, woke up to find himself a hero. Indeed, he was a hero before breakfast. It isn't every man who can sit down to his morning meal with a newspaper before him commending him for his marvelous pluck. It is questionable if such acts are the result of pluck or the result of impulse.

But when he went downtown to business he was surprised that every one he met took the same view of the matter as the newspaper.

That evening, having an engagement with Jennie Oglesby, who had been hesitating whether to bestow her affections on him or a rival of his, she lionized the hero. Tom, taking advantage of the situation, proposed and was accepted then and there.

Jennie was very proud of herself in winning so noble a man. She talked to everybody about her lover's prowess, telling the story again and again. Then when Tom fell ill and it was feared he would die she vowed that if he did she would never marry, for she could not expect to find a man who had shown such evidence of bravery.

But Tom recovered, and the two were married. Mrs. Gregory appeared to have but one pride in her husband, and that was his bravery. While other romantic features of matrimony were worn away by the hard flint of fact, Tom Gregory's display of courage seemed to grow in luster in the eyes of his wife. Tom was not much of a money maker, nor did he occupy any prominent position in the affairs of the nation. But there was one thing in him to be proud of—his bravery. True his tackling a burglar was gradually forgotten by the community, or, rather, in the constant change of its members those who had heard of it were being replaced by those who had not. One person was not likely ever to undervalue it—his wife.

One evening when Tom was going home from business he heard cries in a house he passed. He listened, and they were repeated. Some one was begging piteously for mercy. The door stood open, and Tom went in. A man was beating a crippled boy. Tom told the man to desist and received only a cursing for his pains, whereupon Tom struck him with his fist, landing him upon the floor. Then he told the brute that he would look in occasionally as he passed and if he ever caught him ill treating the cripple again he would give him what he gave the boy. He also said that he would be back during the evening to investigate the case.

Tom told the story to his wife at the dinner table. He was not interested in his wife's valuation of his prowess and did not look at her to learn how she received the account of his protection of the cripple. Shortly after dinner he took up his hat to go out.

"Where are you going?" asked his wife.

"To find out all about the case of that poor little cripple boy," was the reply. "It may be necessary for me to separate the child from the man. At any rate, I don't propose that the boy shall suffer any more of his brutality."

"Before you go," said Mrs. Gregory, "I want to show you something up stairs."

"What is it?"

"Come and see."

She led him to a room on the third story.

"There's something in the closet. I don't know if it is a cat or a rat or what it is," she said.

Tom went to the closet and looked in. Hearing the door shut behind him and a click, he turned and pulled on the knob. He was locked in.

"What the dickens are you doing?"

No answer.

"Jennie, let me out!"

"Not unless you'll promise something."

"What is it?"

"I want you to promise me you won't go back to quarrel with that horrid man."

"Good gracious! What's the matter with you?"

"You might get hurt."

Half an hour later the hero of the burglar episode was released after what was a virtual promise to let the little cripple suffer.

But he broke his promise.

Duty.
The sphere of duty is infinite. It exists in every station of life. We have it not in our choice to be rich or poor, to be happy or unhappy; but it becomes us to do the duty that everywhere surrounds us. Obedience to duty, at all costs and risks, is the very essence of the highest civilized life. Great deeds must be worked for, hoped for, died for, now as in the past.—Selected.
